TERROIR

The Languedoc wine region in southern France stretches along the Mediterranean coast.

The vines here are located on limestone slopes, influenced by warm sunshine and refreshing breezes.

WINEMAKING

HARVEST : The crop is harvested quite early in the season. Grapes are sorted and destemmed as soon as they reach the cellar

VINIFICATION : Fermentation occurs at the controlled temperature of 26-28°C (80-82°F). For 15 days, juices are punched down daily to extract color and tannins.

MATURATION : The wine is bottled after four months on fine lees.
